Toronto's cut is the deepest

◗ Feds urged to rethink funding cuts for immigrant agencies ◗ More newcomers settling elsewhere in Canada

Federal cuts to immigration settlement agencies will hit the GTA especially hard, Toronto-area MPs said Thursday.

The cuts will disproportionately affect Toronto, where the unemployment rate for new immigrants rose to 20 per cent from 13 per cent over the past year, said Liberal MP Gerard Kennedy.

At a press conference Thursday, the MPs urged the government to reverse its decision to slash $53 million in funding from agencies that help new immigrants become integrated and self-sufficient.

According to Statistics Canada, the third quarter of 2010 saw the highest immigration rates the country has seen in four decades.

Immigrants made up 70 per cent of Ontario's population growth during that period.

Roughly 85 per cent of the cuts — announced late last year — will be in Ontario, a total loss of $43 million.

More than 30 agencies will lose their funding entirely, while dozens of others will see their funding decrease, said Kennedy.

"What we want to do is make sure that this remains a federal issue and doesn't end up becoming something that city council is forced to deal with because of the problems it creates for the City of Toronto," he said.

78,000

Recent GTA immigrants expected to lose the help they need to find jobs, apply for documents or enhance their language skills, with the cuts.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney has said the cuts will ensure that taxpayer money is used efficiently.

Kenney attributed the funding cuts to shifting immigration patterns.

Newcomers to Canada have been spreading out across the country, with Ontario receiving a slightly smaller share each year.

But the overall number of immigrants in Ontario is still growing, Kennedy argued.

"There are 85,000 more people in the GTA needing help, not less. How does he justify cutting $53 million?" he asked.

"It makes no sense to be taking services away from people at the very point when they need them to succeed as new Canadians."

Nine-car pileup shuts southbound DVP

Sgt. Tim Burrows said the pileup was the result of a car rollover that happened south of Bloor. Cars between the Bayview-Bloor exit and the crash site were trapped while emergency crews worked to clear the scene, many expressing their frustration on Twitter. Five people were taken to hospital with minor injuries. Police plan to conduct their investigation off-site, according to Burrows.

SIU reopens third G20 investigation

Only one criminal charge has been laid against an officer in relation to alleged brutality

The province's police watchdog has reopened a third case alleging police brutality during the G20 summit after new video and still images have surfaced.

Joseph Thomson's case was one of the original six G20 cases investigated and subsequently closed by the SIU at the end of November because there wasn't enough evidence to lay charges against a single officer.

On the afternoon of June 26, Thomson allegedly interfered with the arrest of a friend near Queen Street West and Spadina Avenue. The 34-year-old was subsequently detained and alleges a police officer struck him in the face. Thomson suffered a fractured nose.

"The SIU investigators are now actively working on this matter with the intent of identifying additional witnesses who may have seen Mr. Thomson's arrest and may be able to provide additional information to assist the SIU."
SIU DIRECTOR IAN SCOTT

The SIU interviewed eight witness officers. One subject officer declined to be interviewed, as is their right.

"I do not believe there is a sufficiently reliable basis to conclude that the subject officer used excessive force," SIU director Ian Scott said at the time.

On Thursday, Scott announced in a press release that he would be reopening his investigation into the injuries sustained by Thomson.

CORRECTION:
The Canadian Press reported Jan. 26 that Metrolinx president Bruce McCuaig estimated the improvements through electrification of the Lakeshore and Georgetown GO train lines could lure two million commuters to GO Transit's current 200,000 daily ridership.

In fact, that is not the case. Metrolinx advises GO is forecasting it will have 77 million commuters annually in 2030 and the improvements would add another two million to that figure.

TARGETING TOBACCO

'WE CANNOT WIN A WAR WE DO NOT INVEST IN'

The governing Liberals need to put more money into programs that will help smokers butt out if they want to win the war on tobacco, Ontario's chief medical officer of health said Thursday.

Government funding for tobacco control has dropped over the last three years to $43 million from nearly $57 million, even though smoking is costing Ontario about $8 billion a year in health care and lost productivity, Dr. Arlene King noted in her first annual report.

"The plain truth is, we cannot win a war we do not invest in," King said after releasing the report.

"And when every dollar we invest results in savings of $3 to government, the case for this investment would appear to me to be self-evident."

The government must do better in getting smokers to quit, given that fewer than four per cent engage in provincial cessation efforts, the report said.

Years late, not a buck short

Seven southern Ontario construction workers identified as 'rightful' winners of 2003 jackpot that had been paid out to alleged fraudsters

TANNIS TOOHEY/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Construction workers, from left, Joe Reaman, 35, Jim Reaman, Michael Maddocks, 35, Daniel MacGregor, 36, Jason Dykema, 34, Daniel Campbell, 37, and Adam Barnett, 32, pose with their OLG cheque for $14.85 million.

Call them the Super 7.

There were smiles, cheers and high-fives Thursday as seven regular Joes allegedly cheated out of a Super 7 lottery jackpot held up their $14.85-million cheque.

"This stuff doesn't happen to people like us," said one of the newly minted millionaires, Adam Barnett, of Grimsby, who operates a backhoe for a living.

Working together at Bethlehem Trenching in Burlington seven years ago, the men regularly played the lottery, always with quick-pick tickets.

They never photocopied their tickets or kept track of the numbers. The most they'd ever won was $80.

Police allege the men were never handed their jackpot-winning ticket, which was a free play ticket they had won, when they validated a ticket at a Burlington convenience store.

Last September, police charged a convenience store worker and his two children with fraud.

The trio are accused of cashing in the $12.5-million prize in December 2004 and living the high life — buying five luxury cars, two homes in the Toronto area, commercial properties, fancy jewelry and electronics.

The charges set off a high-tech search for the "rightful" winners.

Barnett saw a news truck outside the convenience store and the story on the news the night the search was announced. The store is next to a Tim Hortons where they used to get coffee, he said.

They talked over whether they could be the winners but waited months to come forward, he said.

"We basically just thought it was a one-in-a-million chance," said another of the winners, Jim Reaman, 40, of Ridgeville. "Apparently it was."

After collecting their winnings — with interest — the seven men said they plan to keep working. They joked they'd have been broke by now if they'd collected in 2003.

Police seized or froze about $10 million in assets from the convenience store worker and his children.

Jun-Chul Chung, 60, Kathleen Chung, 29, and Kenneth Chung, 28, face several charges, including fraud over $5,000 and possession under $5,000.

Police allege the father gave the ticket to his daughter, who claimed the prize and denied she had a connection to a lottery retailer.

Tracking tech

Some 661 people were interviewed by police before the lucky seven were identified.

- The Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation's Data Analysis and Retrieval Technology (DART) system was instrumental in the probe, said OLG chairman Paul Godfrey.
- The program creates a profile of the buyer of each ticket, which can then be used to narrow down the original buyer when there is a disputed lottery jackpot.

▶ Robert Herman, president of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police and police chief of Thunder Bay, said Thursday that a $15-million boost to fight guns and gangs is needed.

TAVIS created rural sprawl for crime: Police

Province gives police another $15 million to target gangs and illegal guns over the next two years

A police crackdown on illegal guns and gang activity in Toronto has sent criminals across Ontario seeking safer places to do their illegal business, Thunder Bay's police chief said Thursday.

The Toronto Anti-Violence Intervention Strategy (TAVIS) was expanded to about 17 police forces from Amherstberg to Waterloo after criminal gangs spread from their Toronto base, said Robert Herman, who is also president of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police.

"What happened during the successful project in Toronto, it was like a balloon — as you're pressing it just starts to spread out," he said.

The provincial plan was modelled on the Toronto gang strategy, and has led to more than 1,100 arrests and 2,000 criminal charges in three years, while 200 illegal guns were taken off the streets.

"We saw the activities of these gangs actually spread throughout the province of Ontario, as far north as Thunder Bay. I had people who were identified as Toronto gang members in my community, and we're talking about 1,000 miles away."

"The very important characteristic of TAVIS is to continue to integrate, co-ordinate, co-operate and I actually think that's helping to reduce the pressure" on the courts," said Attorney General Chris Bentley.

About $1 million of the pledge will go to municipal and First Nations police forces not currently involved in the provincial strategy. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Man accused of killing police officer remanded

The man accused of running down a police officer with a stolen snowplow was remanded in custody Thursday while his newly hired lawyer awaits disclosure.

In a brief video appearance, Bob Richardson said he would represent Richard Kachkar, who faces a first-degree murder charge in the death of Sgt. Ryan Russell.

"The investigation is ongoing," the prosecutor told Ontario court justice of the peace Milan Then.

"There should be some disclosure in the next three to four weeks."

The prosecutor asked to put the case over until Feb. 24 to allow time for the material to be gathered and turned over to Richardson.

The Toronto-based criminal lawyer said he'd had a chance to talk to Kachkar, but refused to provide any further details about the accused. Police have been seeking information from the public about Kachkar — divorced with two grown children — who drifted between Toronto and St. Catharines.

- Kachkar's left arm remained in a black sling and his nose still showed signs of injury.
- He did not speak beyond clearly identifying himself to the court during what was his third appearance since his arrest.

2010 was record for hotels in Toronto

Tourism Toronto says 2010 was a record year for the city in terms of hotel room rentals.

The group says the number of "hotel room nights" sold reached more than 8.93 million last year.

Toronto moved up to sixth place in hotel occupancy among top North American cities, from 10th a year ago.

That gave Toronto the fifth highest growth rate and the sixth highest total occupancy rate. THE CANADIAN PRESS

DEMONSTRATIONS

Another domino falls: Now protests hit Yemen

Tens of thousands of Yemenis demanded the president step down in nationwide protests Thursday.

They took inspiration from the popular revolt in Tunisia and vowed to continue protesting until their U.S.-backed government falls.

Yemen is the latest Arab state to be hit by mass anti-government protests, joining Tunisia and Egypt in calls for revolutionary change.

The demonstrations pose a new threat to the stability of Yemen, the Arab world's most impoverished nation and a haven for al-Qaida militants.

"No delays, no delays, the time for departure has come!" shouted protesters, calling for the ouster of President Ali Abdullah Saleh, who has ruled for nearly 32 years.

Saleh's government is riddled with corruption, has little control outside the capital, and its main source of income — oil — could run dry in a decade.

In Aden, a 28-year-old man was in critical condition after setting himself on fire in a protest.

Canada moving fast to oust rogue Tunisian clan ◐ Residency revoked

The Arab world's unruly pro-democracy wave has washed over Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

With members of the deposed Tunisian regime's family reportedly holed up in the Montreal area, Harper couldn't avoid the sensitive subject of popular uprisings during a stop in Morocco Thursday that was supposed to focus on free trade.

"Canada will use all tools at its disposal to cooperate with the international community in dealing with members of the former regime," Harper said.

"They are not welcome — I'll be very clear — we do not welcome them in our country."

Harper added: "Canada supports the transition in Tunisia."

"We support the democratic development that is taking place there and, obviously, want to see that proceed positively."

As for uprisings in Egypt, he said: "We want to see democratic development in that country as well and we're very supportive of that.

"At the same time, we want to see that happen in a way that is peaceful and non-violent."

The prime minister began his one-day stop in North Africa with a visit Thursday to the tomb of the "father of modern-day Morocco" — King Mohammed V.

His short visit ended with an audience with King Mohammed VI, to whom power passed in 1999.

The king's portrait is plastered across Morocco's capital, where a massive palace complex dominates the centre of the city.

Obama's speech? 'WTF,' says Palin

Sarah Palin has issued a scathing response to U.S. President Barack Obama's state of the union address, attacking his economic policies and the "recycled rhetoric" that she says no longer inspires hope.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Sarah Palin

In a lengthy missive on Facebook, Palin didn't mention the call for unity that Obama made in his speech Tuesday.

Rather, she focused her attention on his economic proposals, calling his ideas for investments in areas like high-speed rail "half-baked."

She said they would put the nation on a "bullet train to bankruptcy."

She also said Obama doesn't understand that debt is the biggest problem facing the United States.

She noted the speech was dubbed Winning The Future, and suggested the acronym of that title, WTF, is an apt way to describe the speech.

Jets deal vital, warns MacKay

Scrapping a plan to purchase American fighter jets risks leaving the Canadian Air Force grounded in 2020, says Defence Minister Peter MacKay.

Hezbollah training militants in Gaza: Israel

Israel's cabinet minister in charge of strategic affairs says the Hezbollah guerrilla group has infiltrated agents into the Gaza Strip to train Palestinian militants.

Moshe Yaalon told reporters Thursday that it is "relatively easy" for Hezbollah agents to make the journey from Lebanon.

Gaza is ruled by the Hamas militant group, which, like Hezbollah, is sworn to Israel's destruction. Israel has long accused Hezbollah and its Iranian backers of supporting Palestinian militants, but officials have said little about an actual physical presence of Iranian-backed militia in Gaza. Hamas has denied that foreign forces are in Gaza. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

METRO WORLD LEADERS EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

'All we want is a state of our own': Salam Fayyad

- Palestinian National Authority plans to declare an independent state in August
- Prime Minister Salam Fayyad will ask the UN General Assembly for recognition
- The former World Bank economist is turning the West Bank into a thriving, peaceful area

ELISABETH BRAW
METRO WORLD NEWS

He's the prime minister of the Palestinian National Authority. But to travel between his office in Ramallah and his Jerusalem home, Dr. Salam Fayyad must pass Israeli military checkpoints.

That soon may change. Later this year, Fayyad, an economist and former World Bank official, will ask the UN General Assembly to recognize Palestinian statehood. Fayyad has already transformed Ramallah, the Palestinians' provisional capital, into a thriving city that features international banks and even five-star hotels. In fact, Fayyad is building an unofficial country that he hopes will show the world that Palestinians can govern themselves — and do so peacefully.

Metro met Fayyad at his office in Ramallah.

Are you trying to catapult the Palestinians into a Middle Eastern role model?

All we want is a state of our own. Our right to freedom has always been seen as something we somehow have to earn, which is unfair. But if we can show the world a stable Palestine with a well-functioning infrastructure that provides reliable services to its residents, we'll have created the reality of a state. It will be very hard for the world to ignore it.

Will I be able to call you prime minister of Palestine in September?

You'll be able to call someone prime minister. I'll be the first person to congratulate him or her on becoming the first prime minister of Palestine. We've been waiting for this for so long … We have to keep up the positive dynamic we've started; we have to keep being persistent to create positive change every day to enable the state of Palestine to be born.

Are you certain it will happen?

Yes. In August 2009, we set ourselves the goal of Palestinian statehood in August 2011, and here we are. I have no Plan B or Plan C. We have only this plan and we think it's going to work. In order for it to happen, we Palestinians have to believe in it. It's that sense of inevitability we're trying to create by determination and perseverance. If you don't have a timeline, you don't have a good plan. We're working on the ground to get fully ready for the state of Palestine.

ANNE PAQ/METRO WORLD NEWS

PALESTINIAN NATIONAL AUTHORITY PRIME MINISTER SALAM FAYYAD

What will the geography of Palestine look like?

It will comprise Gaza and the West Bank, and the West Bank includes East Jerusalem. This is the territory occupied in 1967. The two areas will be connected by a safe passage, something that's actually in the Interim Accord between Israel and the Palestinians but hasn't yet happened. The separation of Gaza and the West Bank has contributed to the political separation that we're going through right now.

Are there other factors?

The state of security. Militias shouldn't be allowed to operate in Gaza. Non-violence has tremendous power. It has worked so many other times in history: In the U.S. civil rights movements and in countries like India gaining independence, and I believe it will work for us, too.

Blast at funeral triggers fury in Iraq

Car bomb targets Shiite area ◆ Iraqi forces pelted with sticks and stones ◆ 48 killed, 121 wounded

A car bomb exploded outside a funeral tent in a mainly Shiite area of Baghdad Thursday, killing at least 48 people.

It was the latest in a wave of attacks that have triggered fury over the government's inability to stop the bloodshed.

As ambulances raced to the scene and Iraqi helicopters buzzed overhead, young men enraged over the security lapse pelted Iraqi forces with sticks and stones.

The car that exploded about 2 p.m. Thursday had been parked with the vehicles of other mourners, several metres away from the funeral tent, so it wouldn't raise suspicion, police said.

Several other cars were set ablaze and nearby houses were damaged.

Television news footage showed broken plastic chairs overturned inside the tent. Broken tea cups and other debris covered the patterned rugs on the floor.

Grim scenes

- A witness who identified himself as Abu Ahmed al-Saiedi said mourners had been allowed to park near the funeral tent because people in the neighbourhood knew each other.
- Al-Saiedi said, "I blame the neighbourhood security officials for letting this car bomb enter the area without being checked. When I saw people hurling stones at the security forces, I said to myself 'They deserve that.'"
- Another witness — Ali Kamil, a 22-year-old student who lives in the area — said he rushed to the scene. "I discovered that a friend of mine from college was killed ... along with another friend of mine ... I saw other friends injured."

▶ ANADIR members meet Thursday in Getafe, Spain, to demand a probe of allegations that for decades newborn babies were taken from their mothers and sold to other families.

Seeking Spain's lost children

Baby-stealing network involved doctors, nurses, midwives and nuns, group says 30,000 believed taken

Hundreds of Spaniards searching for lost children or parents filed a petition Thursday with Spain's attorney general to investigate allegations that newborns were stolen from their mothers and sold to other families, a practice they say went on for decades.

Antonio Barroso, 41, said he found out only three years ago that the parents who raised him were not his biological parents. He said he learned he was sold at birth to another family for 200,000 pesetas. At today's rate that is about 1,200 euros ($1,638 US), though at the time it was worth a lot more.

It is well-documented that in the immediate wake of Spain's 1936-39 civil war, babies and children were taken from women who supported the Republican side that was defeated by the right-wing forces of Gen. Francisco Franco.

Enrique Vila, lawyer for the petitioners' association, ANADIR, said this politically motivated punishment transformed purely into a moneymaking scheme that lasted well past Spain's return to democracy in 1978, and until the mid-1990s.

Targeted Ugandan gay advocate slain

◐ 'David Kato's death is a tragic loss': Human Rights Watch ◐ Police say murder unrelated to homophobia

A prominent Ugandan gay rights activist whose picture was published by an anti-gay newspaper next to the words "Hang Them" was bludgeoned to death. Police said Thursday his sexual orientation had nothing to do with the killing and that one "robber" had been arrested.

Activists were outraged over the death of David Kato, an advocacy officer for the gay rights group Sexual Minorities Uganda. His slaying comes after a year of stepped up threats against gays in Uganda, where a controversial bill has proposed the death penalty for some homosexual acts.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ David Kato

Kato, who had received multiple threats, was found with serious wounds to his head caused by an attack with a hammer at his home late Wednesday in Uganda's capital, Kampala. Kato later died on the way to the hospital.

"We are horrified and saddened by the murder of prominent human rights activist David Kato in Uganda yesterday afternoon," assistant secretary of state for African affairs Johnnie Carson posted on Twitter.

Human Rights Watch called for an urgent investigation, saying that Kato's work as a prominent gay rights campaigner had previously seen him face threats to his personal safety.

Layton lists proposals for federal budget

NDP leader calls on Conservatives to cancel multimillion-dollar stealth fighter purchase

Jack Layton says he has no "bottom line" over what has to be in the federal budget to ensure NDP support and avoid an election — but he faces calls from his caucus to play hardball on corporate taxes.

During a break in the party's winter caucus retreat, Layton said he has put forward a list of proposals that he wants to see in the budget, and is waiting for some kind of response from the Harper government.

But he said there is no make-or-break issue that would lead the NDP to either support or reject the budget, expected in March.

PAWEL DWULIT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶Jack Layton

"We'll look at the full budget and see what it contains," Layton said.

He is looking for a $700-million increase in the guaranteed income supplement for seniors, a more generous Canada Pension Plan, the elimination of federal sales tax on home heating, and the replenishment of funds for environmental upgrades to homes.

"We've laid these ideas out there, and we'll see what the government does by way of response," Layton said.

But finance critic and deputy leader Thomas Mulcair is more categorical. He said he and the caucus would have a lot of trouble supporting a budget that did not put a halt to planned corporate tax cuts.

Studios try new ways to combat piracy

Motion Picture Association of America estimates $25 billion globally is lost to piracy every year

REED SAXON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ British actor Colin Firth, star of The King's Speech, points back to the Pig 'N' Whistle Pub as he is interviewed during dedication ceremonies for his new star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame in Los Angeles earlier this month.

Every year around now, tens of thousands of DVDs of movies still playing in theatres are sent by Hollywood studios to Oscar, Golden Globe and other awards voters.

Every year, some of these discs are copied, and the movies end up being shared online, where they can cut into theatre ticket and DVD sales.

This time, studios are taking a new approach to prevent this kind of piracy, and technology is playing a big part.

Ahead of Sunday's Screen Actors Guild awards, Fox Searchlight this month became the first studio to have nearly 100,000 SAG voters view new movies such as Black Swan through a free download from Apple Inc.'s iTunes store. Paramount Pictures, Focus Features and other studios did the same later with movies such as The Fighter and The Kids Are All Right.

In all cases, downloads are set to expire 24 hours after being viewed and are not available to the public.

As an anti-piracy tool, virtual screenings are cheaper and simpler than past efforts, according to studio executives.

Google tablet kit very near

The version of Google's Android software meant for tablet computers is creeping closer. It will include a fresh look and updated Web browser and keyboard.

The online search leader said Wednesday it released a preview version of the software development kit for Honeycomb (also known as Android 3.0) so developers can test out their applications on the software and learn about its new capabilities.

In a post on Google Inc.'s Android Developers blog, Xavier Ducrohet, the Android SDK tech lead, said a final version of the kit will be available "in the weeks ahead." That will enable developers to publish Honeycomb applications to Google's Android Market app store.

Mining, oil weigh on TSX

Americans applying for unemployment benefits increased last week as snowstorms forced companies to lay off workers Applications rose to 454,000, the highest level since October

Falling mining and energy stocks pushed the Toronto stock market lower Thursday as oil and bullion posted steep declines.

Market heavyweight Potash Corporation of Saskatchewan Inc. was a rare bright light among resource stocks Thursday after it announced its fourth-quarter profit more than doubled.

PotashCorp shares were up $4.88, or 2.92 per cent, at $172.26.

Metal prices advanced with the March copper contract on the Nymex ahead seven cents at $4.34 US a pound. But the higher copper price wasn't reflected in mining stocks, with the base metals sector down 1.38 per cent.

The session's declines left the TSX at about where the main index started the year.

The inability to gain traction has many analysts thinking that the TSX, up more than 20 per cent since the lows of last July without a serious test, is due for a stepback.

Celestica's Q4 beats estimates

Celestica Inc. shares received a boost Thursday after the global manufacturing company issued financial results that beat analyst expectations and expressed optimism that it's poised to achieve the best growth in years.

Celestica shares gained nearly six per cent in early trading following its fourth-quarter report and guidance for the first three months of 2011. It was the biggest one-day jump in more than a month.

Earlier Thursday, the Toronto-based company reported that closely watched adjusted earnings were $58.3 million or 26 cents per share in the fourth quarter, up from $49.5 million.

JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

▶ Calgary's Dan Bennett has been fielding hundreds of inquiries about his song Lights, Camera, Action.

5 MINUTES WITH: 8-HOUR HITMAKERS

As first reported by Metro in Calgary last week, Calgary artist Dan Bennett and friend Dave Wallace of Victoria co-created a song titled Lights, Camera, Action in just eight hours to expose "unoriginal" hit music on today's charts.

What's happened since the story ran?
DB: It got posted on Reddit and it became the No. 1 video on there and then it became the No. 1 video on YouTube (last) Friday.
DW: I couldn't even keep up with emails. I have 1,800 emails and it was getting picked up by ... all these other sites. It just blew up.

Did you expect this kind of exposure?
DB: No. We thought we'd maybe get another 1,000 views, but stuff goes viral and it goes crazy.
DW: No way. For it to go as far as it is now, for me to be getting messages from people in Sweden saying they love it — that it's inspiring them — it's blowing my mind.

Part of the reason you did this was to show how easy it is to make a hit song. Now, with all of this success, do you feel like you're selling out?
DB: No. It's a thought-provoking topic that people want to discuss. The thing is (Kiss bassist) Gene Simmons contacted us yesterday to make a group that would be about that (kind of music) and if we did that it would be selling out.

> "It's a thought-provoking topic that people want to discuss."
> DAN BENNETT

Are you serious?
DB: Yeah, someone from his record label sent us a message ... It's pretty cool when one of the main people of rock calls, but at the same time we don't want to change our style for anyone.
DW: People are trying to jump on to this success, our 15 minutes of Internet fame, but it's not going to happen. I don't see much coming from this.

So, where do you go from here?
DB: Just keep doing what we're doing, just keep trying to make innovative music.
DW: I have got lots of cool offers from people, lots of career stuff that I can look into.

Surveillance video shows drug smugglers using an old invention as a new way to move marijuana across the border to Arizona from Mexico.

National Guard troops operating a remote surveillance system at the Naco Border Patrol Station say they observed several people preparing a catapult and launching packages over the fence late last week.

A Mexican army officer said the three-metre tall catapult was found about 20 metres from the U.S. border on a flatbed towed by a sports utility vehicle.

The officer said the catapult was capable of launching two kilograms of marijuana at a time. He said soldiers seized close to 16 kilograms of pot, the vehicle and the catapult.

The smugglers left before they could be captured.

Chronic launcher?

We asked: Do you have a clever name for the marijuana catapult? No "catapot," please.

@tuxxedomask: I understand that you don't want catapot, but I think that's brilliant.

@ari_ospeedwagon: The Herbuchet.

@imgutsy: buds away.

@van_tourguy: Slingpot?

@johnmcpheeherald: Grassfirer?

@alistairsteele: the chronic launcher?

@JessicaW_YYC: how about potshot.

@CubCarson: I have to go with the El Ka-bong.

@thedependentmag: Potapult.

Metro Minute at Interior Design Show

You would love a sleek home interior, but despite your best efforts, your living room appears to have been assembled by a pack of anxious chimpanzees.

And to your grave disappointment, those indecipherable Ikea instructions for Sven, your handsome new sofa, did not come with a map of where he would be most suitably positioned.

Don't be too hard on yourself: Interior design, like all arts, is a talent possessed by few and cultivated over many years.

For those interested in expert tips and advice, this weekend's Interior Design Show at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre may change your life. Or at least Sven's life. Go to interiordesignshow.com for details.

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Devil may care

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of The Rite
Anthony Hopkins is the best thing about this not-so-scary thriller

Richard Crouse: Mark, if there was an after-school special about exorcism, The Rite would be it. It's earnest, has a message and there's even a teenage pregnancy angle. I just wish it was scarier. It's freaky but could really use a few more pea soup and head spinning scenes.

Mark Breslin: A few months ago, Hollywood gave us a movie called The Last Exorcism. Aw, come on. They promised! Really, Richard, I found The Rite to be a well directed, well acted piece of hooey. If you're a non-believer, there is nothing in this movie to scare you.

RC: Even if you are a believer there's not much there to scare you. Exorcism movies like this need lots of pea soup and head spinning. Instead we a get a demon mule with red eyes. Seriously? It's freaky but not scary. Luckily Anthony Hopkins brings some – ahem – spirit to the proceedings. But is he too much? What did you think?

MB: Hopkins can never do wrong in my book. He is wonderfully entertaining, especially in the second half of the picture when he goes off the deep end. He's one of the two things I liked about the movie — the other being the actual exorcism scenes, which had a genuine intensity to them. And were there any other actors in the film that even registered for you?

RC: In a word, no. I found most of the other actors rather bland. Even Rutger "Hobo with a Shotgun" Hauer, who can usually be counted on to add a dash or two of crazy, is unusually subdued, and Ciarán Hinds, usually a majestic figure on film, fades into the background. There's no question, it's Hopkins' movie, but I sometimes felt he was acting in a different movie than everyone else.

MB: And the movie, though not poorly made, seemed beneath Hopkins' usual high standards. In fact, even by the generally low bar that's set for exorcism movies, I thought that The Rite was just...wrong.

RC: Yeah, I have very little sympathy for this devil as well. I tried to image the movie without Hopkins, for better and for worse, and when I did there wasn't anything left. He really exercises his exorcisms here and that's the only real reason to see the movie.

Plot synopsis

▶ Based on the book The Making of a Modern Exorcist, The Rite once again sees Anthony Hopkins in "personification of evil" mode, but just for a few minutes. He's Father Lucas, a veteran priest and expert in exorcism, who leads a new priest into a wild satanic showdown.

Scene in brief

Lord of the Rings director Peter Jackson has undergone surgery for a perforated ulcer in his native New Zealand.

Publicist Melissa Booth says Jackson was admitted to Wellington Hospital suffering from severe stomach pains.

She said yesterday that Jackson was resting comfortably and is expected to make a full recovery.

Jackson's illness will delay the start of filming for The Hobbit.

5 classic college flicks

Beer, babes and general chaos all reign supreme in these five films that made the grade as the best college comedies ◗ Look out for contender Kaboom, coming to theatres soon

Since Kaboom comes from writer-director Gregg Araki, it's full of lively, funny dialogue, but it's also an ambitiously different, out-there entry in the canon of college comedies.

The film opens in select theatres this weekend and available through video on demand. Here's a look at the five movies in this category that are the big men (and women) on campus.

1

National Lampoon's Animal House (1978)

Well, of course. Could we possibly start anywhere else? It's an absolute classic, one that defined the genre with its wonderful ensemble cast including John Belushi, Tom Hulce, Bruce McGill, Tim Matheson, Stephen Furst and Karen Allen. It made sloth and debauchery look not just amusing but wildly desirable. John Landis' film takes place in the 1960s but holds up beautifully today as a battle cry for chaos, individuality and rebellious fun. Elmer Bernstein's rousing score only amplifies the antics.

Revenge of the Nerds (1984)

OK, so it looks extremely dated, especially when the Tri-Lams give their synth-heavy concert during the big fraternity competition at the end. But it's goofy, raunchy, ridiculous and ultimately sweet – and much better than the many sex romps that cropped up in the early '80s. Anthony Edwards and Robert Carradine led the underdog nerd house against the idiot jocks of Alpha Beta, led by Ted McGinley.

3

Old School (2003)

Luke Wilson, Will Ferrell and Vince Vaughn bounce off each other beautifully as three men in their 30s who form a fraternity. All the necessary hijinks are in place – K-Y Jelly wrestling, streaking, beer-bong guzzling and even a concert from Snoop Dogg – but Old School is smarter than the average college comedy. Vaughn's fast-talking shtick didn't seem quite so tiresome at this point, and Ferrell is delightful in full-on man-child mode.

4

Real Genius (1985)

Val Kilmer shows off the whole spectrum of his confidence and charisma in one of his earliest film roles. He's the coolest guy on campus – which isn't all that tough at the fictional and highly geeky Pacific Tech – as the school's resident quick-thinking, fast-talking prankster and smart-aleck. Martha Coolidge's movie hasn't exactly aged well over the years but it wears its '80s esthetic proudly, has a great, infectious energy about it and, ultimately, a sweetness that binds its misfit characters.

5

Legally Blonde (2001)

Reese Witherspoon is irresistibly adorable as Elle Woods, the plucky sorority queen who transforms herself into a star law student. Perfectly coifed at all times and an expert in varying shades of pink as a fashion merchandising major with a 4.0 grade point average, Elle represents a contemporary spin on the age-old ditzy-blonde character. Director Robert Luketic's film has a brain and a heart and, like its heroine, it's a lot more intelligent than it looks.

The Mechanic
Genre: Action
Director: Simon West
Stars: Jason Statham, Ben Foster, Donald Sutherland

Jason Statham is possibly the last hard man action hero left in a genre superseded by superhero theatrics. Boasting a shiny head and a grizzled voice made to spit out one-liners, the actor is a throwback to a time when efficient action/thrillers like The Mechanic dominated the popcorn crowd. The film is hardly an original spin on the genre, but hits all the necessary beats without wasting a second of screen time or attempting to transcend its B-movie origins. It's simply an update of an old Charles Bronson movie about a professional assassin forced to kill his former mentor and then train the victim's son out of loyalty. Nothing more, nothing less.

The Mechanic requires zero brainpower, but delivers its thrills so effectively that it's hard not to be seduced by its mindless pleasures. ● PHIL BROWN

Thunder Soul
Genre: Documentary
Director: Mark Landsman
●●●●

Before Glee and High School Musical showed it was cool for teenagers to express themselves musically, Conrad "Prof" Johnson was inspiring greatness among his students in the Kashmere Stage Band. Thunder Soul follows a reunion of the students who made up the high school band from Houston that from the late 1960s to 1978 dominated every competiton they entered. The students want to play one last show for the 92-year-old Johnson. Director Mark Landsman deftly weaves the history of the Kashmere Stage Band with present-day interviews leading to a moving ending of a story that even non-music afficianados can appreciate. ● MATTHEW ROMANADA

The Agony and Ecstacy of Phil Spector
Genre: Documentary
Director: Vikram Jayanti
●● ½

A complex and troubled man gets a complex treatment in The Agony and the Ecstasy of Phil Spector. Shot during the legendary producer's first murder trial in 2007, Vikram Jayanti's documentary doesn't really probe at Spector's possible guilt. Instead, the director places the interview in counterpoint to his subject's musical history. The result is a film that's fascinating to deconstruct but oddly hollow. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Dogtooth
Genre: Drama
Director: Yorgos Lanthimos
Stars: Christos Stergioglou, Michelle Valley
●●●● ½

Yorgos Lanthimos' Dogtooth focuses on a suburban family whose dysfunction has been highly systematized. For reasons that are never fully explained, the father (Christos Stergioglou) has raised his brood to be oblivious to the outside world, inscribing various odd behaviours. As an allegory for authoritarianism, Dogtooth is cogent and frightening, but it's the way Lanthimos blends surreal comedy with severe psychodrama that makes this one of the year's essential foreign imports. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Casino Jack
Genre: Drama
Director: George Hickenlooper
Stars: Kevin Spacey, Barry Pepper, Jon Lovitz
●● ½

Based on the true story of Washington lobbyist Jack Abramoff's (Kevin Spacey) rise and fall, Casino Jack recreates the heady days of DC's greediest decade. Spacey hands in a great, playful performance as the nakedly greedy Abramoff, but the movie seems overly impressed with him. It's true he was a complicated man who gave away much of his money but he isn't the loveable scamp the movie tries to present. For a different portrayal watch documentary Casino Jack and the United States of Money. ● RICHARD CROUSE

From cheerleader to Fairly Legal star

Actress Sarah Shahi stars in new Showcase drama

Think there are too many doctors, lawyers and police officers on TV?

Sensing a backlash, networks are starting to fudge things a bit, introducing new shows featuring doctors who are more like Indiana Jones-esque jungle medics (ABC's Off The Map) or fired lawyers who set up practice in a shoe store (NBC's Harry's Law).

Another such show is Fairly Legal, a new U.S. cable drama premiering Feb. 2 in Canada on Showcase. The series, set in San Francisco but shot in Vancouver, stars Sarah Shahi (The L Word) as Kate Reed, an ex-lawyer who quit her late father's high-powered law firm to become a mediator.

Reed is an independent kind of gal. For one thing, she lives on a houseboat out in the harbour. She has the occasional sleepover with her ex-hubby Patrick (Michael Trucco from Battlestar Galactica) but she's not looking to rekindle an old relationship.

"The only place these two can agree is underneath the sheets," says Shahi. Her character may be a mediator, but don't ask her to work out conflict in her personal life.

Instead, Reed throws herself into her work, even though she hates her boss Lauren (Virginia Williams from The O.C.), an icy blond boss who just happens to be Reed's wicked stepmother.

A Texas native of Persian descent (her real name is Aahoo Jahansouz Shahi), Shahi admits she stumbled — or perhaps cart-wheeled — into acting. She tried out for the Dallas Cowboys cheerleading squad because she thought that might lead to a shot on Saturday Night Live. She made the cut.

Her breakthrough role came playing a Mexican-American on The L Word, which was also shot in Vancouver. She was delighted to return to British Columbia last summer and fall to shoot the first 10-episode season of Fairly Legal. "I love Vancouver," she says. "It's definitely my home away from home."

Breezy's new

With three Grammy nods, a No. 1 song and an upcoming CD, focus has returned to music for Chris Brown

▶ Chris Brown

Two years ago, the Grammy Awards appeared to mark the end of Chris Brown's career.

This year, it is serving as a new beginning.

Life for the multi-platinum sensation dramatically changed on the eve of music's biggest night in 2009, when he assaulted then-girlfriend Rihanna and both were forced to bow out of the ceremony.

In the months that followed, he saw his reputation tarnished. He had to plead guilty to a felony, and his comeback CD, Graffiti, was a commercial disappointment.

But with the success of his brush-off anthem Deuces, three nominations at this year's Grammys (including best contemporary R&B album), an upcoming CD and an Australian tour in April, the focus on Chris Brown has returned to his music, without adding the Rihanna-prefix.

"We feel good now that everybody's talking about his music, which is exactly what Chris' intention is," said Tom Carrabba, the executive vice-president and general manager of Jive Label Group, Brown's home label since he released his first album at age 16. (Brown's representative said the singer would not be interviewed for this story and, as of now, would not be attending the awards).

Carrabba says Brown has a newfound confidence, which he believes is the reason for the singer's current success.

"I think when he was a little bit younger he was still trying to find his way a little bit and fine-tune his craft. But I think over the last two years he's absolutely developed a confidence and is very secure in his decision-making process," Carrabba said.

Brown, now 21, is serving five years of probation

We're not even a month in and 2011 has not been kind to the recording industry.

Without getting all apocalyptic about it, there's enough going on to make any observer wonder if the Mayans weren't talking about the world of music.

CD sales are off to a bad, bad start. The year started with Taylor Swift holding on to the No. 1 position on the Billboard album charts by selling just 52,000 copies of Speak Now. That entire week saw just 5.4 million units sold across the entire U.S., an all-time low. And then it got worse.

The following week, Cake's Showroom of Compassion ended up at No. 1, selling just 44,000 copies. Aggregate sales were 4.9 million units. That's beyond ugly. Things aren't any better in Canada with sales trailing last year by around five per cent already. And last year was rubbish.

Sales of digital releases and vinyl are leveling off: While digital sales were up significantly around the globe in 2010 — six per cent or so — sales growth is starting to level off. Same thing with vinyl — which, albeit a miniscule part of the overall market, was a bright spot. And any growth in these areas hasn't been able to offset the margins lost with declining CD sales. Global recorded music revenue fell about nine per cent last year.

Dearth (death?) of rock: The anemic 1-2 finish of Cake and Cage the Elephant on the Billboard charts a couple of weeks ago, was the first time we saw two rock records at the top since — well, I can't remember when. Scan any album chart in the world and you'll see precious few rock releases in the top 50. Rock is almost completely absent from the singles charts. Hope is on the way — Coldplay, U2, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Soundgarden and other superstar acts all have releases in the pipeline, which might get the public excited — but for the moment, the idea of rock being the prevailing style of popular music is over.

The future of the concert industry: Declining CD sales mean that acts have to tour more to make up for the lost revenue. But touring is expensive and exhausting. Economies of scale allow superstar acts to make buckets of money, but it's really, really tough for young, developing acts. Who's looking after their interests?

Then again, it's early. Maybe things will improve. Maybe.

after pleading guilty to felony assault for the attack on Rihanna in the early morning hours before the 2009 Grammys. The Virginia native was commended in November for completing more than one-third of the required 180 days of community service and for almost finishing his domestic violence counselling.

Over the past year, Brown has released a flurry of music. After Graffiti, released in December 2009, failed to create a buzz for the singer like his past albums, Brown put out various mixtapes. One of those, Fan of a Fan, a collaboration with rapper Tyga, featured Deuces, a mid-tempo tune that hit No. 1 on Billboard's R&B/Hip-Hop songs chart for nine weeks; the platinum-selling single peaked at No. 14 on the Hot 100 chart. The music video for the song was No. 1 on BET's Top 100 videos of 2010.

"Some people might have forgot, but then once you see him perform, you understand the gift that he has."

Brown, who has acted in movies such as the popular Stomp the Yard, also hit No. 1 at the box office last year as part of the ensemble cast in the heist film Takers, which also starred rapper T.I. and Idris Elba.

Blunt hopes fans get into 'Trouble'

James Blunt prefers to think of his enduring first hit, You're Beautiful, as a blessing, not a curse.

True, none of his songs have attained the massive success that You're Beautiful did when it hit the No. 1 spot five years ago in the U.S. and beyond.

But Blunt, 33, is happy to have that song on his musical resumé, so long as people understand there's a lot more to his achievements.

"I hope people know it's just a commercial for an album, because every musician makes something much more important than the commercial for the album," said Blunt.

"If you're a fan of music and you go and listen to the album ... find really which is the hidden gem amongst them."

Blunt is hopeful people will take a close listen to his new CD, Some Kind of Trouble, the third for the former British Army man. He calls the album, which includes the first single, Stay the Night, his most upbeat.

A lot of people think you disappeared in the last few years.

Blunt: I haven't been too lazy since then, I promise. I went on the road for two years, doing a world tour, and I ended up in the weirdest and the most wonderful places. ... Then after that, I went into the studio and I was locked into the studio for 12 months, and the result is this album, Some Kind of Trouble.

Did you enter the studio looking for a particular sound?

I knew what I didn't want to do is record or write the same kind of album that I'd done before, because that wouldn't be fulfilling. So instead, I hung out for a little bit with my mates. I got some new inspiration just from some everyday experiences.

Do you think the upbeat songs will surprise people?

Yeah, I'm definitely known for a couple of sad, miserable songs. You're Beautiful is my most famous one in the States, and Goodbye My Lover, and both of them aren't the happiest of tunes. So I think people will hopefully enjoy this Stay the Night. The first single is really upbeat and optimistic, and it's fun for me to play live, too.

Is that the feel for the album?

It's here and now but it has the kind of blind optimism of the '80s when, as a race of humans, we believed we could get together and do anything, and maybe in the same ways of my own teenage years, where you kind of felt life was for living.

Lohan considers restraining order

Forced to call 9-1-1 on aggressive paparazzi after chased at high-speeds

Lindsay Lohan is so fed up with the paparazzi following her that she is now getting the police involved.

The actress called 9-1-1 after growing "scared and frustrated" with photographers who forced her into a "high-speed chase," according to Radar Online.

Lohan may be trying to build a case for a restraining order against one photographer in particular.

"One of the photographers was the same paparazzo who followed her when she was at the Betty Ford Center in Palm Springs," a source says. "He drives a Prius with tinted windows and follows her everywhere she goes."

Water exhibition at the ROM is worth soaking up

A western diamondback rattlesnake, a Gila monster, newts and some frogs are among the creatures to be displayed in Water: The Exhibition at the Royal Ontario Museum.

The idea of having live animals in the show is to illustrate how life has adapted to challenges presented by too little or too much water, the ROM says.

"The United Nations estimates that by 2025, two-thirds of the world's population could be living under water-stressed conditions," said Kim Tait, associate curator of mineralogy at the ROM. "Visitors leave (the exhibition) understanding the vital importance of water to our world and feel empowered to protect and preserve every last drop."

The ROM is the sole Canadian venue for the show's North American tour, organized by the American Museum of Natural History in New York, and is adding content to make the exhibit is "more relevant" in this country, said publicist Lauren Schneider.

"We talk about the re generation of Lake Simcoe (Ontario) as a really interesting Canadian environmental success story," said Schneider.

There's also the story of beluga whales in the St. Lawrence River — "how they were once very threatened and now because of northern countries including Canada working together and changing commercial practices the numbers are rebounding."

Water: The Exhibition will be at the ROM from March 5 to Sept. 5 of this year.

Malcontents in the middle seats

Travel experts share tips on landing the best seats on flights A bit of planning, or extra cash, could keep you out of the dreaded middle seat

ISTOCK

▶ Frequent flyers know where to find the best seats on a plane.

When it comes to comfortable airline travel, don't stop at choosing between aisle or window - seasoned travellers know that scoring a better economy seat on an aircraft is really a game of inches.

Pinned elbows, smashed knees, bent legs and a crooked neck - these are the routine injuries most people feel they have to put up with in economy.

But some seats are worse than others.

"The ones I don't like are in the very last row before the bathroom, sometimes in the middle of the plane," warns Allison Wallace, a frequent traveller and Flight Centre spokeswoman.

"Once I was going standby and all that was left was the middle of the last row. I was stuck in the middle and I was right by the bathroom. That was the worst."

Someone has to be in the middle seat though, and if that's you, any little victory counts.

If you're seated next to an unfortunate traveller in the middle, have some consideration and give them the middle arms, says Dr. Ali Zentner, who's had her share of armrest battles while travelling for her work.

"I've got to get the word out: the person who sits in the middle seat gets both arm rests," Zentner declares.

Of course, it's best not to get stuck in the middle seat to begin with.

The easiest way to do that is to pay the premium to confirm your seat in advance. Many airlines still offer free advance seating but those booking certain flights on Air Canada will have to stomach as much as $22 extra. If you're keen on snagging a seat in an exit or bulkhead row where there's more legroom, the price can be as high as $32.

Passengers loathe to paying extra can pick their seat at check-in. But again, even early birds can find themselves stuck in a tight spot.

If you're stuck in a middle seat, don't wait for an unlikely trade once you're on the plane. The only way you'll score that is if you're seated next to a separated family member, says Wallace.

Travel expert Sarah Schlichter suggests throwing yourself on the mercy of the gate agent once you get to the airport, letting them know you'd like any other seat that may become available.

If you can't bear to stay in the middle, your next bet is to seek an upgrade. In the past, this was something often reserved for elite members but has become increasingly available for the average traveller. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Leafs' optimism is long forgotten

JUSTIN K. ALLER/GETTY IMAGES

▶ James Reimer reacts Tuesday after giving up a goal to Tampa Bay.

Club enters all-star break on pace to finish with only 72 points

One year after the blockbuster trades that brought Dion Phaneuf and J.S. Giguere to Toronto, the Maple Leafs find themselves in the exact same place they started.

The team rolled into the all-star break with a mediocre 19-25-5 record, putting it on pace to finish well out of playoff position with 72 points. That's actually two points behind where the Leafs ended up a year ago.

There was a surge of optimism around the organization last Jan. 31 — the day Giguere was acquired from Anaheim and Phaneuf and checking-line forward Fredrik Sjostrom (along with prospect Keith Aulie) were brought in from Calgary.

That excitement seems long forgotten now.

The Maple Leafs dropped six of seven games heading into the break and are well on their way to a sixth consecutive year outside of the postseason. While Phil Kessel heads off to the all-star game in Raleigh, N.C., the rest of the team will be looking to regroup.

"I think it's an excellent four or five days not to do too much," Sjostrom told LeafsTV this week. "Just relax and try not to think about hockey. Kind of empty the brain. It's good to get a break mentally (and) physically."

Toronto is averaging 3.06 goals against per game — leaving it tied for 24th in the league.

One of the team's biggest problems is keeping the puck out of the net. That is particularly troubling given that more than half of the payroll is tied up with defencemen and goaltenders.

The biggest disappointment has been Mike Komisarek, who carries a cap hit of $4.5 million US but is averaging less than 15 minutes of ice time per game. That's roughly the same as Jay Harrison, a former Maple Leaf who is earning the league-minimum $500,000 salary with Carolina.

Others with similar numbers include: Vancouver's Andrew Alberts ($1.3 million); Washington's John Erskine ($1.5 million); and Matt Gilroy of the Rangers ($2.1 million).

Phaneuf's play has also drawn plenty of attention, mostly because his offensive numbers have continued to drop. The captain has just one goal on the season and still hasn't scored on home ice at Air Canada Centre since joining the Maple Leafs a year ago.

Federer knocked out of Australian Open

First Rafael Nadal, now Roger Federer.

The 16-time Grand Slam title-winning Federer was knocked out of the Australian Open 7-6 (3), 7-5, 6-4 Thursday by 2008 champion Novak Djokovic.

The talk before the tournament was of a blockbuster final between Nadal, going for his fourth straight Grand Slam win, and Federer, who was aiming for his fifth Australian title and perhaps the only player who could stop him.

Instead, after Nadal was eliminated by fellow Spaniard David Ferrer in an injury-induced straight-set loss Wednesday, and now Federer heading home, it will be Djokovic in the final against either Andy Murray or Ferrer — they play their semifinal Friday.

A NATION LOOKS BACK ON GRETZKY'S JOURNEY

Opinion

SCOTT RUSSELL
FIELD OF PLAY

Disbelief. It wells up when considering Wayne Gretzky's arrival at the unthinkable age of 50.

Maybe it's because "The Great One" has been the first truly remarkable hockey player to mature in such a public fashion. More than one generation of Canadians clearly recall him as the prodigal son. He was the magician who transported Edmonton to the centre of hockey's universe. He had the Midas touch.

"He was playing a man's game, but he was a boy," says Kelly Hrudey, an Edmonton native and longtime teammate of Gretzky with the Los Angeles Kings. "But I think he changed and made himself so much better."

Indeed, Gretzky represents the last dynasty, the boy who became king in more ways than one.

A nation watched him weep at being traded, some say sold, in order to fashion the gold rush to hockey's sunbelt. There was the spectacle of a wedding to a Hollywood personality.

Gretzky, mimicking Peter Pan, took Los Angeles close to the Stanley Cup and made the world take notice of Canada's beloved game.

Even in his declining competitive years when Gretzky migrated to Broadway, the mystical powers that allowed him to be at the right place at exactly the right time were still evident.

Somehow, as hockey's finest players were allowed to take part in the Olympics in 1998, The Great One was left on the bench at a defining moment for Canada and a loss to the eventual champions from Czech Republic ensued.

It's tough to recall that moment. It was maybe the last gasp of his youth gone in a whisper. But he held his head high and soldiered on.

In retirement, Gretzky led Canada to Olympic gold but couldn't translate his genius as coach of the Phoenix Coyotes.

Now, he is rarely seen or heard, perhaps revelling in the quiet time he has earned. But a landmark birthday causes his glory to be paraded out for a lightning quick period of reflection and admiration.

"He was the best, no doubt about it," says Hrudey. "He had no faults as a player and even better qualities as a human being."

Still there is a nagging sense of disbelief.

The Great One has made the journey from child star to distinguished hockey elder much too soon.

It is the fleeting nature of superstardom.

Packers re-schedule team photo to include injured players Coach calls incident a 'total overreaction'

Green Bay Packers coach Mike McCarthy isn't thrilled with the way a couple of his injured players chose to express their disappointment about potentially being left out of the Super Bowl team photo, saying they made a "poor decision" when they complained about it in public.

Still, the coach says it's no big deal for the team to take the photo late next week so those players can be included.

"If that's the biggest issue that we have in our preparation, we are going to have a hell of a week," McCarthy said Thursday.

Earlier this week, linebacker Nick Barnett and tight end Jermichael Finley complained on their Twitter accounts that they weren't going to be in the team photo. The photo typically would be taken at media day next Tuesday, and injured players are not scheduled to join the team in the Dallas area until next Thursday.

McCarthy said cornerback Charles Woodson and quarterback Aaron Rodgers brought the issue to his attention. McCarthy then decided to schedule the photo for next Friday instead.

"It's not that they are not part of the team," McCarthy said. "They are in the photo. You want them in the photo and that's important."

He said other coaches advised him to expect such distractions in preparing to play in the Super Bowl.

"Something is going to be screwed up" McCarthy said. "We're going to continue to make sure that we do everything that's in the best interests of getting our football team ready to win this game."

MATTHEW WUEST
@METRONEWS.CA

If the Pittsburgh Steelers win the Super Bowl, it will be a case of the rich getting richer — at least where wealth is measured by championships.

In an NFL era marked by widespread parity, a Steelers win in the Feb. 6 matchup with the Green Bay Packers would give the storied franchise a mini-dynasty of three Super Bowls in the past six years.

The Patriots (2002, 2004 and 2005) and Cowboys (1993, 1994 and 1996) are the only franchises with better championship runs over the past two decades, evidence that it has become increasingly difficult to maintain a winning roster.

In the 16 Super Bowls played since the NFL introduced its salary cap before the 1994 season, 12 different teams have won the title. In the 20 prior seasons dating back to the Steelers' first Super Bowl win in 1975, only seven teams — the Cowboys, Redskins, Giants, 49ers, Bears, Raiders and Steelers — won the big game.

ALMOST PERFECT

Overall, no team has spoiled its fans with success more than the Steelers, who already have an NFL record with six championships. And when they make it to a Super Bowl, it's almost automatic: They win.

Only once have the Steelers made it to the big game and tasted defeat. That was in 1996, when the Dallas Cowboys took them out in Super Bowl XXX.

The only team with a better success rate (minimum two appearances) is the San Francisco 49ers, who are a perfect five-for-five. Oh, the envy the Buffalo Bills and Minnesota Vikings must feel, both zero-for-four, respectively.

BACK TO THE FUTURE?

The Packers, meanwhile, are no slouches when it comes to the big game: They are three-for-four, albeit with two of those wins coming so long ago — Super Bowls I and II in 1967 and 1968 — Brett Favre hadn't even been born yet. Their last win came in 1996, with a 27-year-old Favre at quarterback in Super Bowl XXXI.

With a young signal-caller in Aaron Rodgers now leading the charge, the Packers hope to begin their own mini-dynasty — and in the process, shut down the Steelers' — with a win Feb. 6.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Anyone who tries to pull the wool over your eyes will be lucky to still be standing by the end of the day. Every now and again you have to remind people not to take liberties.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you allow others to distract you today, you won't get much done and that would be a shame as you have so much going for you at the moment. You don't have to be sidetracked by petty issues.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Don't worry about the rights and wrongs of what you are planning to do because you are under a cosmic protection that means you can get away with almost anything.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Why are you holding back when you don't have to? Could it be your subconscious is warning you of an obstacle of which your conscious mind is not yet aware? Proceed with caution.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 When are you going to step up and take control of a situation that only you can resolve? The longer you let others call the shots, the longer it will drag on. Leo is the sign of leadership, lead.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 There is good and bad in everyone. If you keep that thought in mind today, you should be able to stay on friendly terms with just about everyone. Try not to be judgmental. It never leads to anything positive.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Think twice before you reject an offer simply because you will have to pay for it. Sometimes, you have to give some to get some, and this is certainly the kind of deal you will benefit from in the long-term.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 The more others try to tell you that what you are planning is never going to work, the more determined you will be to prove them wrong – and you will.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You have fallen into a rut and need to find a way to liven things up a bit. In true Sagittarian fashion it won't be a small way – you'll break all the rules. A more enjoyable groove awaits.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You can't always be on the winning side and what happens today will remind you that success tastes much better when you suffer a few failures. It's all good experience.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Decide on a course of action and stick to it. The more you change your mind about what it is you want to do, the less likely it is you will ever get started. Do something.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Some people can be carelessly hurtful with the things they say, but you don't have to respond in kind. You're a good enough actor to pretend you are not in the least bit upset.
